Information

Central Wisconsin Center (CWC) for persons with developmental disabilities is one of three residential facilities operated by the State of Wisconsin under the Department of Health Services. CWC has been providing quality care and services for people with developmental disabilities for over 45 years.

CWC is located on 125 acres with a wild flower prairie and park. There are seven residential units and a short-term care unit on the CWC grounds. Approximately 900 staff serve the needs of over 273 people who live at CWC.

Why do Employees Enjoy CWC?

Employees are committed to making CWC a great place to live and work. One way we do that is by following our Core Values:

- Person-Centered
- Respect
- Dedication
- Safety
- Excellence
- Collaboration
- Community

On a recent survey, the majority of CWC employees said:

“I make a positive difference at CWC.”

“I can count on my co-workers to help me.”

“I enjoy working at CWC.”
